THE MEDICAL TEAM'S Austin, TX Program Receives CHAP Accreditation

Austin, TX (March 10, 2010) - THE MEDICAL TEAM, INC. today announced that its Medicare Certified Home Health program in Austin, Texas has received accreditation from CHAP (Community Health Accreditation Program), the accrediting body for community-based healthcare organizations. After a rigorous evaluation, CHAP accreditation is conferred upon home health agencies meeting the industry's highest nationally recognized standards. It is an indication of organizational excellence and quality performance.

About CHAP

The Community Health Accreditation Program, Inc. is a private, non-profit accrediting body. It was the first accrediting organization for community-based health care services in the United States. CHAP was granted "deeming authority" by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) in 1992 for home health and in 1999 for hospice agencies. The CMS grant conferred CHAP with regulatory authority to evaluate agencies providing home health and hospice services and to determine whether they meet requirements for Medicare provider certification.

The purpose of CHAP is to objectively validate the excellence of community health care practice through consistent measurement of the delivery of quality services; to motivate providers to achieve continuous improvement by adhering to standards of excellence; to assist the public in the selection of community health services and providers with demonstrated excellence; and to lead by example through organizational excellence and quality performance.
